

“Princess Phoebe”

by Laura Cole

Inspired by the “Princess Kate” bracelet by Cristie Prince.

Material List:

- 1 – 1.5' of 3mm rhinestone cup chain
- 4 grams of 3mm bugle beads
- 4 grams of size 8 sharp triangle seed beads
- 2 grams of size 11 seed beads
- 1 gram of size 15 seed beads
- Clasp
- 6lb Fireline, size 10 or 11 beading needle, mat, scissors

Right Angle Weave with Cup Chain:

1. Start with a comfortable piece of Fireline. Pick up four bugles and slide them down until you have a 4-5 inch tail. Sew through them again and then tie them in a circle. Sew through the first bugle.

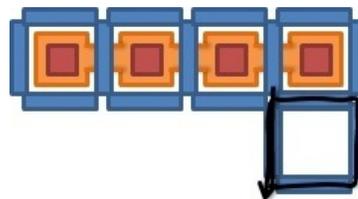

2. Pick up three bugles and sew through the bugle your thread is exiting again. You now have two squares, or two units of right angle weave. Place the squares over the first two stones of your cup chain.

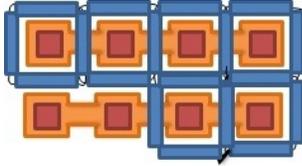

3. Pick up one bugle, bring your thread underneath the chain and pass through the bugle your thread is exiting again. The new bugle is on the bottom of the bracelet holding the chain in place. Sew through the next two bugles in the new unit.

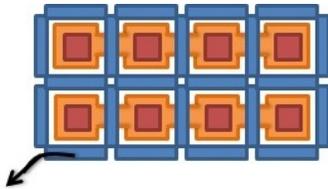

4. Repeat Steps 2 and 3 for desired length of bracelet minus clasp. Trim chain.
5. Weave so you are coming out a bugle on the side of the bracelet to begin a second row of right angle weave. You'll be integrating the chain in the same way that you did in row one. Make your first unit of row 2 using 3 bugles.

6. Reposition and create your next unit by adding 2 bugles. If you are not already coming out the bugle in between the two units just created, reposition so that you are. Insert your cup chain in place, bring your thread underneath and pick up a bugle. Go through the bugle you were exiting again.

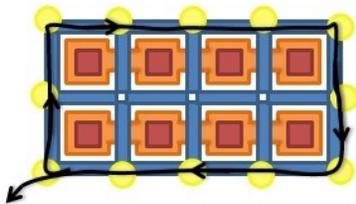

Repeat for the length of your chain. End coming out a bugle on the side of the bracelet

Edging & Embellishment:

7. Pick up an 11 and sew through the next edge bugle. Continue all the way around, adding the 11s on all four sides. Step up into the first 11.

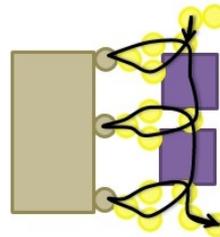

8. Pick up a triangle and sew through the next 11. Do not pull your tension tight or your bracelet will warp, keep it soft. Continue all the way around the bracelet. Step up into the first triangle.

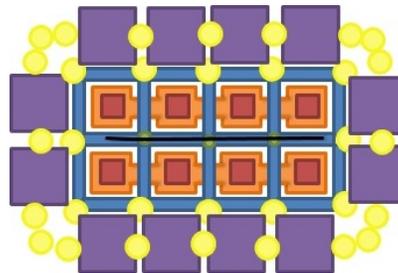

9. Pick up an 11 and sew through the next triangle. Continue all the way around the bracelet, but when you get to each corner pick up three 11s instead of one.

10. You'll end up near the end of the bracelet, so you can stitch on one side of your clasp at this time. A three strand clasp works well, attached to end 11s, stitching using the amount of 11s that will make the bracelet fit well.

11. Weave through your work so you are coming out a bugle at the center, heading towards the length of your bracelet. Pick up a 15 and sew through the next bugle, continuing towards the other end of the bracelet. Do not pull hard, just let them sit in the spaces between the units.

12. Add the other side of your clasp on this end. Weave in and trim your threads.
